Differences in Climate.
Difference in Hay Prices
When Drake Bought Grain
Watch the Grabbers

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19 — This [illegible] at Hodge on the Mojave desert, east of the Cajon pass [illegible] mountains, 90 miles from Los Angeles.

Miles and miles to the pass from the desert, with peach trees in blossom, and the road bordered with roses in full bloom. Then automobiles coming the other way down from Bear mountain, with many bob sleds and toboggans fastened across radiator caps and fastened to the running boards. Crowds go up to pass the week-end in the snow skiing. Man likes change of climate, even when he gets the extreme in half a morning.

ALFALFA GROWN under irrigation in the desert, by this writer and many other farmers, also in many extremes. The best price ever paid by the Southern Flour & Grain Co. of Atlanta, Ga., is $32 a ton. This individual, who owns thoroughbred horses at Alexandria, Va., 2,000 miles away, pays $45 a ton there. The difference is in freight and in the hay. Alfalfa 50 per cent better alfalfa here than in the east, bright green with the blue flowers [illegible]. This writer, having other enterprises, real estate, etc., does not matter, no sympathy supposed the hay will remain in the open for storage.

THE MOST THANKLESS job on earth is supplying for man or beast. Ask any farmer or James Monotto and his wife. He runs a big dairy farm at Phoenix, Ariz., delivers fine excellent milk at 10 cents a quart, and loses money regularly. How can real farmers deliver milk to the dairy for four cents.

Mr. Monotto raises beef cattle on a 1,000 acre ranch north of Phoenix and sells the steers as yearlings to save feed. He can tell Mr. Swift of Chicago that raising cattle is philanthropy, no business. James Monotto, who has had all over the world, says he would rather lose money in the cattle business in the climate of Arizona than make money banking in Chicago or New York.

Tastes differ. Mr. Wiggin, president of the Chase National bank, says he would rather make money banking in New York. The late Orlin Armour used to say that he wouldn't work away from the stock yards if you gave him his choice of any job on earth.

SATURDAY WHEAT sold in Europe at the lowest price since the days of Queen Elizabeth. In the 90% economy you could buy grain in Liverpool as cheaply as Drake bought it when he was provisioning his ships to rob the Spaniards. The Chicago price was better here, thanks to Uncle Sam's long pocketbook, stabilizing prices by buying and not selling and thanks to the [illegible].

LOCAL CONCERN TO BUILD NEW MACHINE HERE

Haulage Unit Known as Marion Mule Added to Steel Body Co. Line.

NOW BUILT IN BUCYRUS

Production of Machines To Start Here in Spring, Company Officials Say.

Manufacture of a new haulage unit known as the Marion Mule will be undertaken by the Marion Steel Body Co. next spring, it was announced today by James L. Grissinger, purchasing agent of the steel body company and secretary-treasurer of Marion Mules, Inc., a subsidiary of the main company.

When plans are completed for the manufacture of the machine, the company probably will add 20 men to its force to produce the unit and place it on the market, according to Grissinger.

Many in Use

Several hundred of the Mules are now in use, but heretofore they have been produced in Bucyrus by another concern, which recently sold its interests to the new Marion Mules organization.

The Mule is the newest in haulage units and is built for heavy duty and short hauls. Its manufacturers claim it can go where the ordinary truck cannot go, and that it can be used on steep grades and boggy ground. The machine consists of a dump body built on a tractor chassis.

One of the features of the Mule is the full-floating and oscillating front axle to conform to uneven ground conditions without placing undue stresses and strains on the remainder of the unit. With the novel front axle the front wheels are erect at all times, yet the steering remains easy, it is said.

The rear wheels are interchangeable. Either steel wheels, caterpillar crawler rtucks or pneumatic tire equipment may be used to suit conditions.

To Build Machine Here

Every part of the Mule, with the exception of the McCormick-Deering power unit, will be manufactured here, Grissinger said. The steel castings will be made by local concerns and the entire job of as-

DARING BANDIT ROBS RAILROAD TERMINAL

Lone Gunman Forces Chicago Station Cashier To Give Up $10,000 Cash

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—A lone gunman, operating with skill and daring, robbed the Union station, one of the city's largest railroad terminals of more than $10,000 in cash today.

Police described the holdup as one of the coolest and most audacious in recent years.

Hobard E. Smith, night cashier, was overpowered by the bandit, and apparently was the only person to see him.

Choosing an hour when Smith was alone in the great concourse of the station, counting his cash in a wicker cage, the robber took the cashier by surprise.

Smith said he first became aware of the man's presence when he heard a voice bark: "Open that door! And don't try any monkey business. This is a stickup, buddy!"

Looking up, Smith found himself gazing into the muzzle of an automatic. He was instructed to open the cage door with his left hand and keep the other hand raised. Smith, unarmed, complied. As the door opened the robber entered the cage and pressed his gun to the cashier's heart.

Marching Smith to the money vault, the bandit scooped up the currency, the bulk of which was in counted and labeled packages Most of it was in small bills.

BLUE LAW WAR ON

"Showdown" Expected Soon in New Philadelphia Sunday Show Fight.

By The Associated Press.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Jan. 19—A "showdown" on whether the Sunday blue laws will be enforced here was in prospect today with affidavits expected to be filed against the operators of two motion picture theaters which were open yesterday. Theater men were reported planning to retaliate by filing affidavits against gasoline filling stations and other businesses open on the Sabbath.

At Dennison, south of here, Jacob Smith was arrested and his theater closed. He pleaded guilty and was released under $200 bond pending grand jury action.

New Philadelphia had not had Sunday shows for 13 years when two theaters attempted seven-day programs last April. They were closed on Sundays until recently, however, when arrests were made.

JANITOR TO PRESIDENT, RECORD OF BANKER HERE

W. H. Schaffner Advises Young Men To Pick Job with Possibilities.

W. H. SCHAFFNER

FROM janitor in a bank to president of the institution in 25 years was the reward of patient and untiring effort on the part of W. H. Schaffner, 73, who last week ended nearly half a century of active banking work by his retirement from the board of directors of the Marion County Bank.

After proving that patience and hard work are a good prescription for success, Mr. Schaffner advises the young man of today who aspires to a successful career to find a job which carries with it the possibility of a future, and stick to it until success is his.

"Many young men would be above taking a job as janitor to start their career," Mr. Schaffner said. His experience has proven that a willingness to do the less auspicious jobs and tasks requiring elbow grease are often the foundation of a highly successful career.

During the intervening years from the time he graduated from high school until he took up the banking business at 24, Mr. Schaffner made good use of his time. He worked in a drug store, and learned the cabinet-maker's trade in his father's cabinet shop.

Radical changes from old methods of banking have come about while Mr. Schaffner was engaged in the business. He has seen the Marion County Bank grow from a small institution to large organization with dozens of time saving and efficient devices to aid the

RED CROSS LAUNCHES DROUTH AID DRIVE

Marion County Chapter Asked To Raise $5,000 To Relieve Suffering.

The Marion County chapter of the American Red Cross swung into action today in a drive to raise its $5,000 quota in the drouth relief program of the national organization which calls for $10,000,000.

Direct mail and an appeal through the churches will be the avenues through which the local chapter will approach the public for contributions. Those who are not reached by these means are urged to send checks for any amount they wish to give to the chapter headquarters here, providing they wish to contribute to the relief of thousands of unfortunate persons in 17 states as a result of continued drouth.

Although only a limited number of persons were approached by the letters of appeal mailed today, the general public is asked to contribute by forwarding checks to the chapter offices.

A number of churches have agreed to take up a special offering next Sunday for drouth relief purposes, according to Miss Margaret Dowd, chapter secretary, this morning. Other churches will be approached this week and urged to fall in line with the movement.

The drive is under way in the seven branches of the Marion chapter located in several villages in the county, also.

White Issues Proclamation

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 19—Governor George White issued an appeal to citizens of Ohio today to contribute generously to the American Red Cross in its campaign to raise an additional $10,000,000 for relief in drouth-stricken areas.

The governor's appeal was made following a conference with Fred Spaulding, regional director of the Red Cross, and in it he said the fact that governmental relief contributions are in sight should not lessen the amount of private subscriptions.

"Beyond such help as may reach them through the general assembly, which I have asked to make an emergency relief appropriation, there should be ample means to carry on the work that the Red Cross is so well equipped to do in Ohio and the nation," Governor White said.

The governor Tuesday will confer further with Red Cross officials and all state relief agencies, including the welfare, charities, adjutant general and educational departments to determine what relief should be furnished by the state through appropriations by the legislature and how it should be handled.

Ohio's share of the national burden will be approximately one-tenth, or $998,000, and the rapidity with which new examples of near-poverty are being discovered causes him to believe that quota may have to be doubled Spaulding told the governor.

Afflicted counties, which include Meigs, Ross, Adams, Highland, Vinton, Lawrence, Fayette and Gallia, probably will not be asked to contribute because all their funds are needed for local relief problems.

TAX COLLECTIONS TOTAL $282,000

Treasurer Urges Speedier Payments; Books Not Yet Closed.

The collection of taxes in Marion county reached a total of $282,601.86 at the close of business Saturday, figures in the office of County Treasurer Bert J. Shelton showed today.

On the same date a year ago the collection totaled $409,887.14, but the latter figure represented a 30-day collection as compared to the $282,601.86 total this year which covers only a 23-day period due to a late start in collecting taxes.

Tuesday is the last day of the 30-day extension granted by county commissioners for payment of taxes, but the books will not be closed for some time, Shelton said today. He urged taxpayers, however, to speed up their payments before the 10 per cent penalty is attached.

The $409,887.14 collected on Jan 17 last year represented an average daily collection of $13,460, while the average to date this year is $12,300.

Banks throughout the county this week will begin assisting in the collection of taxes in their respective districts. Their collections are expected to boost the total considerably.

APPROVE NAVY BILL

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—The administration's $90,000,000 naval construction bill was approved today by the senate naval committee, including provisions for a six-inch gun cruiser, which was rejected by the house naval committee.

The committee voted unanimously to report the bill, which provides for one aircraft carrier, one flying deck cruiser with six-inch guns; one six-inch cruiser; and four submarines.

An amendment, recommended by the navy department, to appropriate $8,600,000 for experimentation with Diesel engines also was approved. The aircraft carrier, completely equipped, will cost $27,000,000; the flying deck cruiser $20,700,000; the six-inch gun cruiser, $16,885,000, and the four submarines $4,460,000 each.

DE BOE CASE JUDGE AGAINST "SCANDAL"

Declares Trial Should Not Become Carnival of Mud Slinging.

By International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan 19—Judge William C. Doran, presiding over the grand theft trial of Daisy DeBoe, accused of embezzling from Clara Bow, the screen star, today opened the hearing by declaring against scandal in the trial record.

Miss DeBoe, demure and pretty, sat on the witness stand ready to testify while Judge Doran, as he expressed it, "took a hand in the case."

"No trial of this kind should be allowed to degenerate into a mud-slinging carnival," Judge Doran declared. "The issues are clean cut. The question is, did Miss DeBoe steal the money as charged?"

"You haven't heard anything yet," reporters were told by Miss De Boe, who is charged with appropriating Miss Bow's money to her own use while working as the actress' secretary.

"I'm not going to prison on charges of stealing money and jewels from Clara if the whole story of our two years together will keep me out, and I know it will," said Miss De Boe, after explaining that she had spent the week-end "brushing up" on the story which was interrupted Saturday but which she expected to continue telling on the witness stand today.

MOVE AGAINST RELIEF FUND ACTION FAILS

Postponement Motion on 25 Million Dollar Proposal Ruled Out of Order.

ROBINSON IS CONFIDENT

Seeks Immediate Vote; Coolidge and Smith Head Red Cross Drive.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—The attempt of administration leaders in the senate to defer consideration of the $25,000,000 appropriation for the Red Cross until Feb. 9 was ruled out of order today by Vice President Curtis.

Senator Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, moved the postponement with the argument that the Red Cross be permitted to complete its campaign for $10,000,000 in private subscriptions.

After more than two hours debate Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, made the point the Reed motion was out of order because of an agreement requiring that the senate vote today on the appropriation. Vice President Curtis sustained Norris.

The move to postpone was in line with the step taken yesterday by President Hoover to bolster the Red Cross drive with the appointment of a committee of leading citizens headed by Calvin Coolidge and Alfred E. Smith to sponsor the campaign.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who is sponsoring the $25,000,000 appropriation was prepared to press it to an immediate vote and he claimed enough votes to win.

Line Up for Battle

Relief for the poverty-stricken of drouth states became today the basis for a straight out struggle between the President and congress.

Determined to make a success of the Red Cross drive for $10,000,000, Mr. Hoover called upon a group of outstanding citizens, led by Calvin Coolidge and Alfred E. Smith, to sponsor the fund raising.

Congress was set upon enacting the proposal to hand the Red Cross $25,000,000 out of the treasury.

The Red Cross drive in its first week yielded only about $600,000. Leaders of the organization complained the congressional proposal was having an adverse effect upon the campaign. Without mentioning the Democratic sponsored project upon which congress is working, Mr. Hoover yesterday referred to the voluntary subscription method of raising relief funds as "the American way."

He used the term in announcing appointment of his special committee.

Urges Voluntary Aid

"It is essential," said the president, "that we should maintain the sound American tradition and spirit of voluntary aid in such emergency and should not undermine that spirit which has made our Red Cross the outstanding guardian of our people in time of disaster."

There have been strong intimations that Mr. Hoover would speak even more plainly than that if congress persists in its present plan, and a veto has been hinted by his friends.

With former President Coolidge, who has accepted the honorary chairmanship, the special drive committee will have as vice chairmen Alfred E. Smith, and John W. Davis, last two Democratic Presidential nominees, General John J. Pershing and General Abel Davis of Chicago.

Fifty others who have agreed to serve are leaders in politics, labor, religion, the professions and business, education and finance.

Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, said yesterday that "had it not been for the agitation in congress thousands of men, women and children would have bitterly died of hunger and exposure."

"Christian Communism" Only Hope, First Speaker Tells Assembly.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan 19—Declaration that armed conflict between capitalism and Russian communism is inevitable unless one side or the other is Christianized was made by Dr. Ralph C. Cushman of Rochester, N. Y., in an address prepared for delivery before the twelfth annual Ohio Pastors Convention here today. Dr. Cushman's talk was the feature of the opening session.

Asserting the world is not big enough for the contrasting economic orders, Dr. Cushman said both were opposed to the Christian point of view by which "property simply must be stripped off as a matter of absolute ownership and personal indulgence and put to use for humanity and God."

Designates "Only Hope"

"My conviction," the speaker said, "is that the only hope of avoiding this terrible conflict is found in a principle of property which I wish to call Christian communism. . . . This principle is nothing more or less than the application of Jesus' law of love and brotherhood to prosperity and income.

Christian communism, Dr. Cushman continued, "was a voluntary recognition of the idea of Christian stewardship. There was nothing compulsory about it. The present Russian experiment is a different thing. Not only is it professedly Godless but it is thoroughly despotic.

"But right here we ought to recognize a vital resemblance between Christian communism and one phase of bolshevism. Both have a program of world reconstruction.

Growing Deaf With Head Noises? Try This.

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear catarrhal deafness, or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears, go to Henney & Cooper or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to take. Anyone who is threatened with catarrhal deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial. Adv.

Skin Tonic Helps When Blustery Gales Arrive

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

I'VE made some changes in the formula of our pet skin tonic and I want to tell you about them today.

This tonic is made by adding together equal parts of boric acid solution and witch hazel. It is used as any other skin tonic . . . to purge the skin and pores of the last trace of cleansing cream after the obviously excess cream has been removed.

Boric acid has antiseptic qualities as you all know and when it is combined with witch hazel, which is slightly astringent, a really fine skin tonic is made.

For normal skin or skin which is inclined to oiliness this skin tonic proved ideal but we found that a slight chapping or roughness occurred when it was on a dry skin It was to overcome this that glycerin was first added to the formula.

Those of you who continue to use this tonic during the winter months can make it by adding glycerin and rose water to the original formula. I'll set down the formula again.

Add two heaping teaspoonfuls of boric acid crystals to one pint of boiling water. Stir constantly until the crystals have dissolved. When cold add one pint of witch hazel to the boric acid water. This is the formula for the original tonic and it may be used as a skin freshener, to remove cream, and as a mild stimulant for toning up the skin.

If your skin is dry you already have added one teaspoonful of glycerin to your boric acid and witch-hazel solution so all you need to do is add one teaspoonful of rose water and that is that.

Those of you who have been using the tonic in its original form and whose skin condition is normal or inclined to oiliness should add one-half (½) teaspoonful of glycerin and one-half (½) teaspoonful of rose water to the original formula when using it during cold weather.

After cleansing the skin and removing the excess cream, saturate a pad of cotton with the tonic and smooth this genty over the skin always following the upward and outward movements recommended for massage. As long as the pads of cotton show signs of soil after being passed over the skin, saturate a fresh one until the last pad is as clean as it was before using. Then work the lotion on the face gently into the skin by smoothing the tips of the fingers over it.

Saved from Cold

"When Eleanor caught a cough it usually was followed by a long, lingering cold. This winter when she started coughing and sniffling I gave her Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. Not only did it stop her cough quickly, but her cold never developed." Mrs. P. Grabill, 4003 E. 11th St., Indianapolis, Ind.

Acidity
Puts More Men "On the Spot" than All the Gangsters in the World!

More insidious than skulking assassins, Acidity lays more men low than all the guns of gangdom! Many a run-down condition, many a case of "nerves," sleeplessness and melancholy is really Acidity.

When the stomach secretes too much acid it causes acid-indigestion, with gas, sourness, and burning. It also sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines, creating poisons which pull us down physically and mentally. A marvelous German development, called Magnesia Oxolds, corrects Acidity in the right way. Upon contact with the gastric juice, Magnesia Oxolds generate nascent or active oxygen. The oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus which keeps the acid in check; corrects intestinal fermentation and stimulates peristalsis or the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary, and only Magnesia Oxolds supply them because it is the only magnesia product known to science which, when taken internally, releases oxygen to the system.

To see just how "acid" you are make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxolds from Bradley's Drug Store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly and in full.—Adv.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Low market values of eggs and butterfat are working a hardship on Marion grocers as well as Marion county farmers. Eggs and butter have been at a very low ebb so far as prices are concerned, although as active as ever.

With retail egg prices as low as 26 cents farmers must take at least several cents less than that price for eggs when they market them at local stores. An oversupply has been responsible for the low prices, which have prevailed since early last fall

Butter prices are in the same boat An oversupply of butterfat has caused producers to force butter prices down to figures lower than any in years.

Firemen Have Easy Time as Roof Burns

One of the easiest jobs of fighting done in several years fell to the lot of firemen of company No. 1 late Saturday afternoon.

Called to the K. C. Price home at 393 Windsor street, where flying sparks had caused a blaze in the shingle roof, the firemen went up to the attic of the house. Six two blazing shingles from the roof the job was done.

GRAIN PRICES SHOW DECLINE

Moist Weather in Wheat Territory Brings Sag in Value: Corn Drops.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—Grains went downward early today, influenced by moist weather in domestic winter wheat territory and by fresh declines in wheat quotations at Liverpool. An increase of 2,584,000 bushels in the amount of wheat on ocean passage was announced, with Argentina and Australia reported as anxious sellers abroad Opening ⅛@⅞ cents off, wheat afterward dipped further. Corn started ⅛@⅜ down, and continued to sag.

As an immediate market factor, measures decided upon today at Paris tightening the French government's grip on imports of wheat in France, had no apparent effect in Chicago. Estimates that about 30,000,000 bushels of imported wheat would be needed by France this season elicited also only passing notice in view of large world supplies in sight and because of French official restrictions against wheat use without large admixture of rye. In some quarters, the new French decree ordering special certificates for all foreign wheat imported in France was regarded as a precautionary step to avert dumping of wheat in France from Russia or other countries.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat market weakness. Eastern shipping demand here for corn was slack. Nebraska farmers were reported burning corn as cheaper than coal for fuel. Primary receipts of corn totaled 1,232,000 bushels, against 1,161,000 a week ago and 1,176,000 a year back.

WITH EDNA S. DUTTON

IF you are a true lover of dogs if you believe that they really do think things out for themselves remember forever the folks they like and the folks they do not like and who do not like them—to put it briefly if you have, or ever have had a dog that was the best ever, you'll enjoy "Shep of the Painted Hills," by Alexander Hull and published by the Frederick A. Stokes Co.

You will roam to the Oregon hills with Shep and shiver at some of his perilous escapades in the mountain fastnesses, rejoice with him in his conquerings mourn with him in his lonely vigil of waiting for the return of his master and you will not be ashamed of the tears in your eyes when that royal animal joins his ancestors in the land where all good dogs go.

The author is the son of the late Mrs. Eva Hummer Hull of this city His activities were carried in the news columns of The Star Saturday.

SHEP was only a mite of a pup when his master, John Harvey a lone prospector in the Oregon hills purchased him from a man on the street, one cold, drizzly day Smuggled into his master's room his first taste of what to him was luxury, was a meal of bread broken in milk and warmed on the radiator and a nap by that very some radiator. His discovery put both Shep and his master out in the street by an irate rooming house owner and the pair found themselves on the Wilds ranch where Harvey hoped to earn enough money to start his prospecting again in the spring

There was plenty of talk, behind Harvey's back you may be sure when Shep failed to show up with a part of the winter's roundup of sheep, but picture the rejoicing when the spring brought home the dog and all but of few of the animals which he had herded in a crevice in the mountains throughout the long months His story brought hundreds of visitors to the ranch and also brought offers for the dog to the master, who refused them all Among those who wish to purchase the dog is one Gregory Arnold, a clean cut young man and the reader hopes that if any one gets him it will be h

Harveys' partner in the prospecting game is an unscrupulous sort of a chap and when they strike gold it is an easy matter to put Shep's master out of the way The partner is not fond of Shep and the feeling is mutual, so he roams the wilds The hills also hold another interested in the gold and the dog, the latter because he remembers Arnold's offer of $1,200 for him and that is a worthless chap named Belknap

To the hills one day comes Jane Houston, a wealthy girl from Portland, and her aunt from Boston, the former also in quest of Shep The dog, however, grown used to the wild life and hating Belknap, as well as all other men, and never having known women, avoided them both The barrier was broken when Belknap cornered Jane in a mountain pass one day and Shep saved her life. From that time on the dog had another owner on whom to lavish his affections and protection and it is not hard to be at home on Jane's big ranch near Portland

Romance enters into the story when Belknap steals Shep from his mistress and sells him to Arnold who throws in an extra hundred dollars after hearing the story Belknap had to tell Jane advertises for the dog and after a week or more when the dog makes his escape from Gregory and returns home, the advertising ceases With this as a lead, Gregory starts out to find his dog which he guesses is the same one and meets Jane Their story is of two sensible young people and one hopes for years of life ahead of them Shep is given a playfellow, a beautiful white Collie named Cara and life at the Lodge promises to be one of perfect enjoyment

Hergesheimer's New Novel

JOSEPH HERGESHEIMER'S new novel "The Limestone Tree" is a vigorous vivid saga of a single state, Kentucky we are told It is a story of a pioneer family neither southern nor entirely northern, but Kentuckian with the north predominating

The family history begins with Gabriel Sash, a hunter and runs a bloody trail past the way between the states Gabriel married Nancy Abel, then disappeared into the forest never to return to see his son James Early in the story there is Indian fighting and the pioneers were as handy with the knife as the hostile savages

It was a family experience that trouble came from the south There was Laure cousin of Nancy, who brought a slave woman from New Orleans and whose culture tankled her fierce kinswoman until finally Nancy killed her because she thought Laure had put an evil spell on little James

Generations later there was Fauche Brimage, a stranger who came in and pulled a race Gabriel, the second grandson of the first would have killed him too had not Fauche revealed a secret marriage to Gabriel's sister

In the end the youngest generation, represented by John Dixon Filkes, a young man reared in Paris and conscious of it, is introduced into the family tradition by the dying Gabriel who retells the lore of the Abels and the Sashes.

THEATER NEWS AND REVIEWS

WALTER HUSTON HAS LEAD IN ATTRACTION COMING TO PALACE

"The Criminal Code" To Be Here Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

"THE CRIMINAL CODE," the stage play which won the New York Theater club trophy as a stage production has been filmed under the same name, with Walter Huston and Phillips Holmes leading the cast. Constance Cummings and Mary Doran supply the feminine loveliness. It will be at the Palace Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Walter Huston in the leading role of the prison warden, heads the list. Though Huston has long been one of the highlights of the New York stage, he made his picture debut only a short time ago. Yet in this time he has established himself as a screen personality second to none.

Phillips Holmes the Princeton student who was a member of the Triangle club, university dramatic society, has the leading juvenile role.

The so-called "honor among thieves" has been frequently proved a fallacy, but woe betide the man who breaks the unwritten laws that are rigidly enforced in every penitentiary. Convicts have a strict and inviolable code of ethics that regulates their own conduct. Their first commandment is "Thou Shalt Not Squeal."

The working of this code, which is unavailingly opposed by prison officials, provides the theme of Huston's latest picture.

"THE GORILLA" AT OHIO TONIGHT, TUESDAY

You'll still get a thrill when you see "The Gorilla" at the Ohio tonight and Tuesday. Even though you may know what's coming next a little shiver tricles up and down your spine when you see this mandestroying thing slipping through hidden panels, lumbering up hidden stairs and playing havoc with pretty Lila Lee's love affair.

Harry Gribbon and Joe Frisco hand you the laughs as "Mulligan" and "Garrity" the detectives assigned to guard the home of Edwin Maxwell when the story opens. Maxwell has been threatened in a note that he is to be the gorilla's next victim. Man, or beast, the gorilla strangles his victims and leaves them with the mark of his paw on their chests.

If you haven't read the story, or have never been entertained by this picture as a stage play, the ending will come as a startling surprise to you. We'll keep the picture secret.

TIBBETT THRILLS WITH SONG IN PALACE ATTRACTION

"New Moon" Picture of Russian Intrigue and Love in Army.

"NEW MOON" at the Palace tonight for the last times is on the recommended list. The show has everything, beautiful music, sung by the two best voices in Hollywood, action, neat comedy, a colorful story and fine direction.

Lawrence Tibbett and Grace Moore, Roland Young, Emily Fitzroy, Adolphe Menjou and Gus Shy give a sparkling music drama that will entertain delightfully.

Tibbett is a lieutenant in the Russian army and Miss Moore is a princess, affianced to Adolphe Menjou, a governor. Young is her sympathetic uncle and Emily Fitzroy is her position-grabbing aunt. These last two and Gus Shy, a friend of Tibbett's, furnish the comedy.

The picture tells a story of love, intrigue and adventure in colorful Turkestan from its opening on a Russian steamer to the exciting closing sequences in which an attack of Riffs is quelled. Tibbett and Miss Moore sing beautifully. You'll thrill to Tibbett singing "Stouthearted Men," and the duo singing "Wanting You" and "Lover Come Back to Me."

Interesting short subjects, a news reel and Regal Spenser complete the bill. H. H.

Break Up in a Jiffy

This Quick Way

Feel Like A New Man Almost Before You Know It

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

TWO ASK DIVORCES

Plaintiffs File Suits in Common Pleas Court Here.

Two petitions for divorce were filed in common pleas court today, another was withdrawn and dismissal of another is asked by the defendant.

Florence Retterer asks that she be divored from Sterling R. Retterer, whom she charges with gross neglect. They were married on March 25, 1929, ad have one child, whose custody is sought by the plaintiff. The latter also asks for alimony. The petition was filed by her next friend, Winona Solomon, through Attorney J. H. Eymon.

Gross neglect and extreme cruelty are charged by Vernell Burket in a suit against Bessie Burket. They were married on Oct. 5, 1927. The law firm of Donithen & Donithen represents the plaintiff.

The suit which was withdrawn at the costs of the plaintiff was that of Rose Huggins against Fred W. Huggins. L. E. Myers was the plaintiffs attorney.

Dismissal of the petition of Margaret Ferne Geddis against Edwin Burton Geddis is asked by the defendant through Attorney L. E. Myers. The defendant admits the two have been separated but he denies the allegations of gross neglect and extreme cruelty. He contends that he has been supporting a minor child.

A judgment of $1,162.11 on trade acceptance and an account for goods is asked in a petition filed Saturday in common pleas court against the John F. Lust Co. by the Euclid Candy Co. The plaintiff is represented by Attorney C. C. Fisher.

1931 Marion County Fair Dates Set for Sept. 29 to Oct. 2

Conflict with Other Events Causes Change

Board Meets Here To Plan Next Agricultural Exhibition; Admission To Remain at 35 Cents; Several Concessions Already Booked; Premium List Revised.

Dates for the 1931 Marion county fair are Sept. 29 to Oct. 2 inclusive, it was decided at a board meeting of the Marion County Agricultural Society in the offices of the county commissioners Saturday afternoon. This is about three weeks later than customary.

Original plans were to have the fair on corresponding dates with the 1930 exhibition but conflicts with other fairs in nearby counties and with circuit races at London led the board to delay the dates.

Admission Remains Same

The price of admission this year will remain at 35 cents, the board decided. Any persons entering exhibits will be permitted to make the entry, and will be given a membership ticket entitling them to admission at any time during the fair for $2. A campaign to sell membership tickets carrying with them the right of admission at any time, will be made, according to Secretary Carl W. Sifritt. The tickets will sell at $1.50 each.

The entire premium list this year was made more practical in the lengthy session Saturday. Beginning early in the afternoon after a short morning session, the board revised the entire list, omitting freak exhibits and confining the displays to animals and produce extensively grown in Marion county.

Saving of $75 in the premium list was made possible by eliminating the beef heifer show display, which has failed to arouse sufficient interest to justify its continuation, according to board officials. The display was withdrawn by unanimous vote of the board. Other displays which the board struck from the premium list include the mule display. Premiums formerly going to this exhibit were added to prizes offered for the three standard breeds of horses, Percherons, Belgians and grade draft horses. As a result, premiums for these horses were increased 20 per cent.

Two departments of the premium list were not acted on Saturday. They are the poultry and sheep exhibits, which will undergo a complete revision and will be submitted for approval of the board at a meeting Feb. 21.

Friday School Day

As in previous years all Marion county school children will be admitted to the Friday fair free of charge. Tickets will be distributed through all schools in the county.

After conferring with four Smith-Hughes agriculture instructors from LaRue, Prospect, Pleasant and Waldo schools in the morning session, the board provided for an attractive junior fair this year. Plans are not much different than those of last year, but the junior department is expected to attract more interest this year

Although the nature of the attraction has not yet been decided, there will be a free entertainment for fairgoers this year, Secretary Sifritt said. A rodeo presented without charge last year proved to be a decided success, and fair visitors are assured of entertainment equally enjoyable this year, according to fair officials.

The county commissioners will not be asked to contribute financially to the fair, the board decided yesterday. If a contribution is not offered by the commissioners with the consent of the taxpayers, the agricultural society will not go to the board for financial aid.

Several concessions for the 1931 agricultural exposition have already been booked by Secretary Sifritt. The score card concession has been sold to A. B. Curtice of Wellington for $100. Three rides were sold to Jess Edwards of Wooster for $225. He also purchased five game concessions for a total of $50. Five other game concessions went to Frank Septer of Columbus for a total of $50.

At its next regular meeting Feb. 21, the board will complete the revision of the premium list, and will act on a number of concession contracts.

James H. Ramey, Ohio Brigadier-General of Uniform Rank, Receives Medal.

JAMES H. RAMEY

Presentation of a gold medal of honor to James H. Ramey of 145 Superior street, brigadier-general of the Ohio Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, was one of the principal features of a district Knights of Pythias meeting held in Columbus Friday night. The medal was given Mr. Ramey in recognition of his service as head of the Ohio Uniform Rank during the last four years. The presentation speech was made by Major-General Tuggle of Danville, Ill., national head of the organization.

Reports show that the Uniform Rank made exceptional progress in Ohio in the four years of Mr Ramey's leadership. He was re-elected for another four-year term at a meeting held in the fall of 1930.

All Pythian lodges and subordinate branches in Franklin county were represented at the meeting and visitors were present from other sections of the state. A group of 12 including Mr. Ramey attended from Marion.

Mr. Ramey is employed as head of the repair and supply department of the Huber Manufacturing Co.

COMMODITIES DROP IN PRICE

Included Among Signs Regarded as Favorable to Farming This Year.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 19—Figures favorable for farming during the year just beginning have appeared with more than usual frequency, says a bulletin issued here today by the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation. The bulletin continues:

The index of wholesale commodity prices is now down to a point which is only 16 per cent above the 1913 level. A year ago the same index stood at 40 per cent above that level.

Textile or clothing products are reported at only seven per cent higher than before the war, as compared with 40 per cent higher a year ago. Retail prices of clothing have probably not declined in the same ratio, but there is evidence in every store of very definite declines in clothing prices.

Building Costs Lower

Building materials are indicated at about 25 per cent over the so called pre-war level. A year ago the index of wholesale building material prices stood at 51 per cent above that level. In other words, costs of building material have declined about one-sixth during the past year, if bought in a wholesale way. Farmers may not build to any extent this year, but this reduction in prices will tend to increase building and in this way give employment to more people, so that the purchasing of farm products will increase.

Farmers are indirectly interested in the reduction of the price of metal. The principal metals now stand at only six per cent above 1913, as against 25 per cent at the beginning of last year. Structural steel prices are rated at 1.60 as compared with 1.90 a year ago. Copper had been fluctuating around 10 cents as against 18 cents last January. Lead is five cents a pound while a year ago it was only six and a fourth cents a pound. Tin is 26 cents as against 39 cents. Zinc is four cents, against five and a fourth cents.

Storage Supplies Drop

Outside of price figures may be mentioned a favorable decrease of cold storage holdings. Poultry in storage is reported at 105,000,000 pounds by the government as against 141,000,000 pounds a year ago.

This improved condition is already showing in some increase in the prices paid for poultry.

Storage supplies of butter are reported at 63,000,000 pounds against 82,000,000 pounds last year.

Holdings of meat in storage are generally quoted as favorable for farmers. Not one of the important meats has a supply larger than a year ago, and in most instances the supplies are considerably under the five-year average

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Jan. 20

THE astral mutations for this day indicate a rather adverse state of affairs, excepting for those in the employment of others, who are in line for some notice or favors from those in authority. There is a general menace of duplicity and treachery dominating the affairs, which had best be met by being alert and guarded. Protect the funds and attend to all matters with discretion.

Those whose birthday it is may look for recognition or favors if in the employment of others. If not there is a menace of treachery or fraud, or even subtle undermining in new projects or in the financial activities. With alertness and precaution affairs depend much on one's own sagacity and diligence. A child born on this day should be capable and probably original and ingenious, but it may lean to subtlety and craft and would succeed best in the employment of others rather than for itself.

Crest of Niagara Falls Broken by Rock Slides

Erosion and Ice Blamed for First Major Change in Contour Since First Viewed by White Men; Occurs on American Side.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 19—The famous Horseshoe falls between Goat island and the Canadian shore had a new aspect today because of rock slides during the week-end.

The 1,000-foot crest of the American falls before the slides was in an unbroken line, but there now is a rift in the line about 300 feet from Luna island.

The U-shaped indention in the brink created by the slide is estimated to be 150 to 200 feet deep and 150 feet in width.

Apparently the Cave of The Winds has not been affected, though the broken rocks and stone may have obstructed the pathway leading to this scenic feature of the falls. Because of the prevalence of ice and snow, no attempt has been made to enter the cave. A fall of rock in the cave eight years ago injured several sightseers.

Dr. Reginald H. Pegrum, geology professor at the University of Buffalo, said that while erosion was the main cause of the slide, winter weather and the ice, causing cracks and scars in the rock surface, undoubtedly were contributing factors.

Remedial measures to minimize erosion, preserve the beauty of the falls and provide for a greater division of water for power purposes have been held up for two years because of the failure of the United States senate to ratify a treaty drawn up by the international board, composed of engineering representatives of the American and Canadian governments, and signed by members of this board Jan. 2, 1929. The plan, the estimated cost of which was $1,750,000 was ratified by the Canadian parliament May 20, 1929. The protocol never was reported out of senate committee.

Only six per cent of the Niagara Falls flow is over the American falls. Under the treaty, the flow on the American side of the cataract would be greatly increased and made more even by a series of under water dams.

Nature's upheaval at the falls drew many visitors.

CHANGE UNPRECEDENTED

First Major Alteration of Falls Since Discovery by White Men.

By United Press

NIAGARA FALLS, Jan. 19—The most beautiful part of Niagara Falls—the famous "bridal veil" between Goat island and the American side of the cataract — was marred today by a gaping hole in the falling water.

The first major change in the contour of the falls since white men first saw them occurred yesterday when an enormous mass of rock and earth 150 feet long and about 40 feet deep broke away from the rim of the precipice and plunged downward with the falling water. There is constant erosion along the edge of the horseshoe, but no cavern of this proportion has occurred in the memory of white civilization on the American continent.

The cavein resulted in no casualties, since it was about 400 yards above the falls view bridge. It did not affect the numerous walks and light bridges used by tourists.

Where the water formerly was carried several yards straight out from the edge by the force of the current, it now pours straight downward, causing a hole in the cataract which much resembles a missing tooth.

GRAND JURY CALLS CASHIER IN PROBE

available bit of evidence will be considered before the inquiry is closed," McDermott reiterated today.

Two Have Appeared

Two of the 18 witnesses to appear this week already have given part of their testimony before the grand jury. They are Evensen and Gaskell, who have made intensive studies of the bank's records, will be recalled to the witness stand, McDermott indicated.

Casey, the bank's former president, who is under a nine-year sentence to Atlanta penitentiary on charges of falsification of bank records and reports to the U. S. comptroller of currency, has completed his testimony and will not be recalled, McDermott said. Casey, however, will be held here pending the conclusion of the jury's probe of the bank, it was said.

Renewal of the grand jury study into the affairs of the bank was instituted by the former bank president when he asked to be permitted to "tell my story." He charged, when he pleaded guilty to three counts in three federal indictments, that four directors of the bank had sanctioned his stock market speculations and the making of false reports and records work which were little more than dreamed of when he started in the banking business nearly half century ago.

By mastering the German tongue, Mr. Schaffner attracted to the Marion County Bank practically all of the German banking trade of Marion county while he was advancing to the office of president of the institution. Many of the German residents of the county of that time could not speak the English tongue, and swarmed to Mr. Schaffner's window to transact their business. As they were a thrifty group, the bank enjoyed an additional share of business.

Mr. Schaffner was one of the two members of the second class graduating from Marion high school. He was born here Feb. 12, 1857, and has lived in Marion all his life.

He served 10 years on the board of education and several years on the board of sinking fund trustees.

His hobby is collecting stamps. Several large portfolios of stamps from every country in the world, a collection which has been displayed in Columbus and which has attracted no little attention at exhibits, indicates he went after his hobby as vigorously as he did his vocation.

On May 11, he and Mrs. Mary Hecker Schaffner will have been married 50 years.

and from those that have anything to divide, you hear nothing about dividing.

If we ever get a Democratic government, and it ever faces a "grave menace" it will come from gentlemen seeking to grab everything, not from would-be dividers. If congress can take care of the grabbers, at Muscle Shoals, for instance, it need not worry about Communistic dividers. They will change their minds, as soon as they get something to divide.

The committee says the "Reds" are closely united and obey the orders of Moscow, absolutely.

That is as foolish as what the Reds say of capitalism, and even more inaccurate. Where 10 Communists are gathered together there are 10 distinct and separate plans for governing the world. And no real Communist believes in taking orders from anybody. Look at Trotzsky,, thrown out by Stalin. Danton beheaded by Rodesplecce. Robespierre guillotined by Marat, he in turn stabbed to death by Charlotte Corday. Congress should watch the grabbers, and let the comic artists attend to the Communists.

man, New York night club owner.

The announcement that the charges yet to be heard would be "the hottest yet" did not worry Miss Bow, who was ill at her Beverly Hills home. She said all she wanted was to testify again after Miss De Boe had finished. Deputy District Attorney Dave Clark said the actress probably would be called on to do so.

Star Not Worried

"What Daisy is saying doesn't worry me at all," Miss Bow declared. "She talked plenty while they had her on the witness stand Friday, but I've got answers to almost everything she said and I'll tell a thing or two if the district attorney calls me as a rebuttal witness."

She was particularly incensed at Miss De Boe's testimony regarding her purchase of jewelry for her men friends.

"When I bought anyone anything it was for some good reason — Christmas or a birthday," Clara declared, "and this goes for all the men Daisy mentioned. I bought Lothar Mendes a ring because I liked a picture he directed for me. What's wrong with that? But the prices Daisy mentioned were ridiculous."

BURGLARS RANSACK SCHOOL BUILDING

Make Unsuccessful Attempt To Open Safe in Superintendent's Office.

Burglars who Saturday night ransacked the Harding High school building and made an unsuccessful effort to enter a safe in the office of Supt. G. A. Bowman are believed to have left the building empty-handed after several hours of work.

Tools taken from the manual training department of the school were used in an effort to batter away the combination on the safe in the superintendent's office. Although the attempt was unsuccessful, the combination was ruined.

Had the safe been opened, the work would not have yielded big returns. Ordinarily, only a few cents are left in the safe at night, and practically nothing of value was in it during the week-end, according to Superintendent Bowman.

Entering through the domestic science classroom in the basement of the northeast corner of the building, the burglars visited nearly every classroom in the building, evidently searching for money.

Early last September, burglars successfully raided the safe in the superintendent's office, escaping with $500 representing income from the sale of textbooks.

Prosecutor and Attorney Address Victory Meeting

Wilhelm Asks Citizens' Cooperation by Observing All Laws; Hazen Says Appeal for Overthrow of Prohibition Not Voice of Majority of American People.

"We are witnessing in this year the most extensive bombardment of propaganda and interested appeals to ignorance, prejudice, the lust for profit and the lust of appetite which have ever been let loose, and many are mistaking the noisy propaganda for evidences of majority opinion," Attorney W. Dexter Hazen declared in his address on "The Fallacy of the Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment," last night at the county W. C. T. U. Victory day services at the Prospect Street M. E. church.

Mr. Hazen and Prosecuting Attorney Russell M. Wilhelm took part in the W. C. T. U. anniversary.

Mr. Wilhelm, in his talk on "How Citizens May Cooperate in the Enforcement of Law," said: "Citizens should cooperate with the public officials in the enforcement of law by observing all laws."

The church was well filled for the program, which included talks, readings, W. C. T. U. songs and a short talk by Rev. Karl W. Patow, pastor, on "Why I Obey the Law."

Mr. Hazen paid tribute to the women of the W. C. T. U. when he said: "Those who advocate the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment claim that prohibition was put over by a narrow minded type of citizen, whom they picture in their cartoons as a hard, ugly-faced Puritan wearing a tall silk hat, a white tie, Prince Albert coat and carrying a green cotton umbrella.

"This, we know, is not true. Prohibition was made possible by the sustained efforts over generations of the highest type of American womanhood, executives, employers, engineers and industrial leaders. These people knew that industry was being continually handicapped by the carelessness, irregularity and general inefficiency brought by the presence of the saloon."

In closing he said, "I would emphasize that we should maintain the churches' right to be heard on this question. Part of the talk against prohibition at the present time is an attempt to create the impression that when the church and the minister have anything to say in favor of prohibition that they are 'meddling busy bodies.' This is a moral issue. The church members and the ministers should stay in the fight."

LOCAL CONCERN TO BUILD NEW MACHINE

sembling will be done at the Marion Steel Body Co. plant on Monroe street, he said.

Manufacture of the Mule will not in any way affect the present work of the Steel Body company which now produces dump bodies and grave vaults, according to Grissinger. The company at present employs a corps of 25 men due in large extent to the demand for grave vaults, 35 of which are shipped daily.

The company at first planned to have the Mules made at Bucyrus where they were first manufactured, but officials decided to bring the concern here. The sales organization of the Marion Steel Body Co. will be used to market the product.

To Install Machinery

New machinery for manufacturing and assembling the Mule will be installed here between now and spring, at which time the company will be ready to manufacture and market the machine, it was said.

Although the steel body company plant has 30,000 square feet of floor space and can temporarily make room for manufacture of the new haulage unit, it may be necessary to build additional space to store the completed product. This will not be done, however, until this summer, it is believed.

VARIED PROBLEMS TO FACE OHIO ASSEMBLY

Unemployment, Drouth Relief, Among Foremost Issues To Confront Legislature.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 19—Unemployment and drought relief, taxation, prohibition and a contest over confirmation of a cabinet membership occupied the minds of Ohio's legislators as they arrived in the capital to begin another week of work. Both houses will convene tonight.

Indications were that Governor White's appointment of Thomas A. Edmondson as director of industrial relations would precipitate a battle on the senate floor. The governor was confident his appointee would be confirmed, however, despite opposition by officials of the Ohio Federation of Labor. The latter protested the appointment on the ground that Edmondson was not a representative of labor.

Taxation, admittedly the most difficult problem facing the assembly, probably will come up for serious consideration during the week. One plan put forth was that the whole matter be placed in the hands of a non-partisan commission to be created through a joint resolution by the house and senate. The commission would be authorized to write a new tax law as required by the classification amendment, while the assembly disposes of the other problems.

If such a plan is approved, the commission probably would be given two months to complete the task, the results of which then would be taken up by the legislature for final action.

Governor White has recommended an appropriation of funds to meet the immediate requirements of economic distress. Other than this, there has been no concrete relief measures recommended but the legislators, both Republican and Democrats, have promised full cooperation with the chief executive.

Daily Proverb—"The benefactor engraves his name in the hand that receives the benefit."

Ricardo Joaquin Alfara, former Panaman minister to Washington, is now the president of Panama, and the latest Central American revolution may be said to be a thing of the past.

The huge $70,000,000 suspension bridge rapidly nearing completion between Fort Washington, New York, and Fort Lee, New Jersey, is to be named the George Washington Memorial bridge. If it serves the country as well at this time as Washington did in his time the great cost of it will prove money well expended.

Belgian scientists have decided that the fog, which some weeks since caused so many deaths in the Meuse valley in Belgium, was due to natural causes, a four-day wind of a velocity of but half a mile an hour having caused fumes from the industries in the valley to accumulate. In a word, when it comes down to the final analysis, the scores of deaths were preventable.

Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, declares that the time has come to "take prohibition out of the hands of politicians and put it back in the hands of its friends." A large element of the country will agree with him, but it's going to prove some real job in this particular case to determine which are the sheep and which the goats.

The Red Cross officials charge that the senatorial agitation for the $25,000,000 drought food amendment to the agricultural bill has slowed up the Red Cross drive for $10,000,000 to the same end. This is easily understood, but what may happen to the $10,000,000 fund plan expressed through President Hoover probably will not be a cause of worry to the senate radicals.

Mr. Coolidge maintains that labor-saving machinery is a misnomer for the reason that machinery makes labor rather than saves it, and points to the automobile in illustration of the truth of his assertion. That's an illustration which stands as irrefutable. It has made employment for many millions in lines so diversified as to be almost countless.

Action Rather Than Publicity.

Following eight months' study of communistic activities in every section of the country, the special investigating committee headed by Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., reported to the lower house of congress, Saturday, and branded communism a grave threat to democratic government and its economic structures.

The committee's report estimates that there are between 500,000 and 600,000 communists and active communistic sympathizers in the country, but that not more than about 12,000 are dues-paying members of the party; that the aims of communists are the same throughout the world, all taking and obeying orders from the international headquarters in Moscow.

The committee holds that the purpose of the soviet Russian five-year program is not to build up, but to destroy; that, should it succeed, it might prove so great a money producer as to finance communism in world revolution. The soviet union has hurt the production of manganese here and is threatening our grain, lumber, wood pulp and anthracite industries, as it is, and, though having attained little success in boring from within in the American Federation of Labor has "succeeded in weakening and virtually breaking up and destroying a number of the important unions of the federation, notably in the garment, needle, textile and mining trades."

In an individual report, Representative John E. Nelson, of Maine, recommended legislation to enable the department of justice to maintain a close watch on all radical activities; closer administration of the visa system and drastic laws for deporting undesirable aliens; support of organized labor and rigid postal inspection of all radical publications, but the majority report sets out that "the committee is convinced that the surest and most effective way of combatting communism in the United States is to give the fullest possible publicity to the fundamental principles and aims of the communists."

There will be many who will be inclined to agree with the report of Congressman Nelson rather than with that of the other four members of the committee; there are many who feel that the communists are playing for publicity; that their every incitement to violence or disturbance makes manifest that fact, and there is a very general feeling that the congressional investigation just concluded is just so much clear gain to the reds in their pursuit of the spot-light's rays. Summed up in a sentence, there is a very general feeling that action, as Representative Nelson suggests, is inestimably preferable to the publicity recommended by the majority of the committee.

Senate Votes for Modernization.

The Reed bill, providing for the modernizing of the Idaho, New Mexico and Mississippi and authorizing an expenditure of not to exceed $30,000,000 for the purpose, passed the senate last week, the pacificist and little navy elements of the membership, which very decidedly overlap, being bowled over by a vote of seventy-two to thirteen. The bill, for which favorable action in the house is anticipated, authorizes the elevation of the turret guns of the three battleships to thirty degrees, which will increase their present range of fifteen miles to twenty and fit them for use in the front line of our battle fleet. Added protection against submarines, against aircraft bombs, new fire control apparatus and new five-inch anti-aircraft batteries are other planned improvements for which provision is made in the bill.

The three warships vary a trifle in age, size and speed, but their armaments are identical. Each mounts twelve fourteen-inch fifty-caliber guns in its main battery, twelve five-inch guns in its secondary battery and has eight three-inch anti-aircraft guns and two torpedo tubes. The Idaho, completed in 1919 has a displacement of 30,800 tons and a speed of 21.20 knots. The New Mexico, completed the year before, displaces 30,000 tons and is capable of making 21.08 knots. The Mississippi, completed in 1917 displaces 100 tons more than the New Mexico and has a sailing speed of 21.09 knots. The modernization of them will add about 3,000 tons to the displacement of each, which will yet leave a safe margin under the 35,000-ton limit fixed in the Washington treaty.

As they are today, these three battleships were unfit for use in the front line of our fleet. There they would have been more in the way of liabilities than assets, more targets for the guns of an enemy fleet without ability to throw projectiles within five miles of the twenty-mile range at which modern sea fighting in major engagements is conducted. Each of them cost approximately $15,000,000 and by the expenditure of $10,000,000 on each, the three will be able to meet vessels of their class and be good for service for the next fifteen years.

Until the time comes when all vessels of the battleship class are abandoned by all naval powers, it is generally regarded as the course of wisdom to maintain our battleship fleet in the highest possible state of effectiveness, for it might just as well be abandoned as to be otherwise maintained. In their present condition, the three battleships are in a condition which never should be permitted to obtain; modernized, they will be in a condition of effectiveness which ever should be maintained.

It is interesting to note in connection with the senate vote on this bill last Friday, how senatorial courtesy is permitted to delay, if not tie up, legislation. This identical bill was passed early in December, but because several senators, following its passage, made known that they were opposed to it, but were absent from the senate chamber at the time the bill came up in the regular course of procedure for vote, the senate agreed to their request for reconsideration and it was carried over till January 16, despite the very general understanding that it would pass, as it did. Thus the opponents of the bill, the majority of whom are senate radicals, secured a delay of over five and a half weeks, and this, too, at a time when there is a county-wide call for employment.

In view of the fact that a number of liners closely approaching 1,000 feet in length are soon to be constructed it's easy to accept the prediction that the war department will soon announce its permission to let New York City extend its docks into the Hudson to that length. It would be hard to imagine a surer way of inviting property destruction than to force ocean liners to dock with two or three hundred feet of their hulls exposed to traffic.

All the legal proceedings against Gene Tunney having been dismissed or withdrawn, there doesn't seem to be anything in the world to interfere with the major's military career.

"The Little Church at the End of the Road," up in Chicago, has accepted the window which Lotta Crabtree bequeathed to a New York church a generation ago as a memorial to her mother, which was rejected because of the profession of the donor. The state crime commission up in Michigan holds no one cause responsible for present crime conditions, assigning gambling, the use of narcotics, easy money from bootlegging, the use of liquor by minors as chiefly responsible and voices inability to offer a panacea. It might have gone over to Milwaukee and secured a pointer on an adequate remedy—honest law enforcement by officials free from political influence.

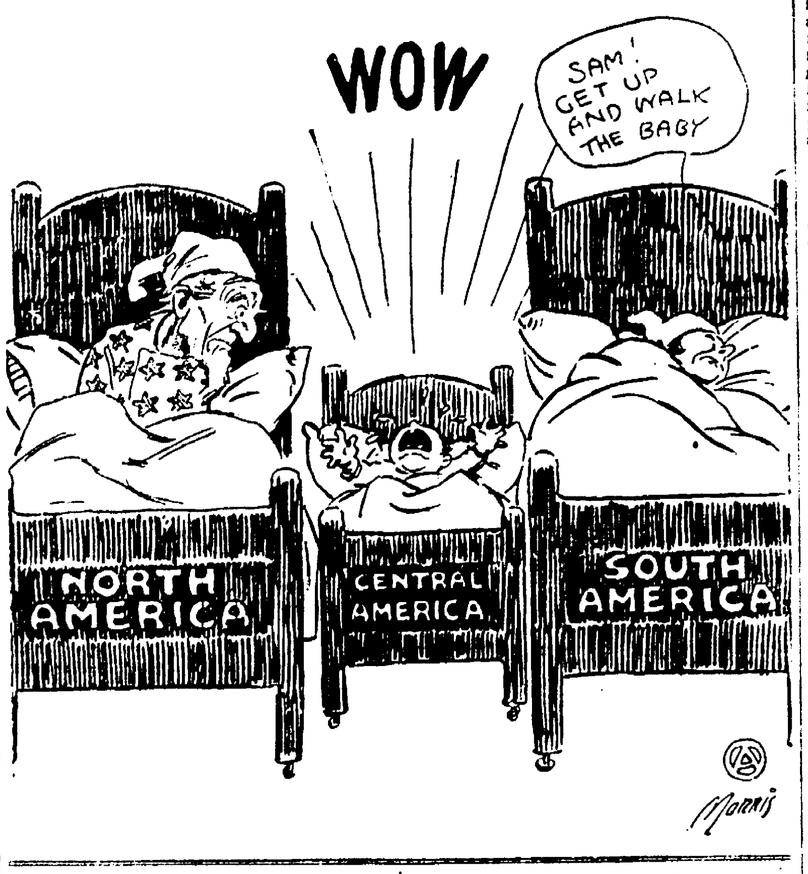
IT'S UP TO UNCLE SAM.



Editorial Opinion.

WHO OWNS THIS OFFICE?

The Ohio Federation of Labor fights the nomination of Thomas Edmondson for the post of director of industrial relations because he is not recognized as a union man. Spokesmen for the federation insist that every occupant of this office since its inception has been named from union ranks.

We have heard little concerning Edmondson's qualifications for this job. James F. Malley, secretary of the Cleveland Federation of Labor, is quoted as saying he does "not question his ability or his integrity. But he is not affiliated in any way with organized labor."

There is, in our opinion, serious objection to the idea that any government office belongs to any group, whatever the office and whatever the group.

The question before the senate when Edmondson's nomination comes up for confirmation is whether the nominee is wholly qualified for the duties of the office; do his sympathies lie in the direction his offical activities are expected to take; is he fitted by education, experience and point of view to handle the problems which arise out of industrial relations in an industrial state? If he meets these sensible requirements his confirmation should be voted without hesitation; if he does not, the nomination should be rejected. We do not think the senate or the public is ready to accept dictation from the Federation of Labor as to who shall or shall not be director of industrial relations.

Here is a challenge we look to Governor White to accept without hesitation. His allegiance is to the people of Ohio, and not to any organization be its motives however commendable.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SOME TRUTHS.

The tendency of modern legislative alleged reform is to more and more empower centralized government. This is wrong and unhealthful. Mr. President Cleveland's reassertion of the principle of American democracy, that it is the business of the people to support the government, not the government to support the people, is fundamentally right. It is not to congress that we should look in time of public distress so much as to the legislatures of commonwealths, which are close to the people, which understand their needs and wants far more accurately than any congress can ever understand and know them. And they have, and should have, the power to act. We are supposed to take care of ourselves. In times of public distress such as the present, when the country has ample supplies of money, of food and raw materials and credit, there must be something wrong when public industry can be widely disturbed and general suffering can attain to major proportions. But it is not to a paternal government that we should look for relief and succor. The people and the states have rights and duties which may not safely be frittered away either in the name of humanity or the economic expediency.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Croghan Raises Ire of "Tippecanoe."

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

It is not strictly true that when Colonel George Croghan won his brilliant victory over the British and Indians at Fort Stephenson, for which he was voted thanks and a medal by congress, he was under charges of insubordination by his commander, General William Henry Harrison.

It was on July 29, 1813, after a council of war at his headquarters, that General Harrison dispatched an order to Croghan in command of the garrison at Fort Stephenson directing him to withdraw from the fort at once, burn it, destroy all supplies and march with his command with all dispatch to headquarters; if that route should be impossible to make his way to Huron.

Evidently in the view of General Harrison, withdrawal from the fort was immediately imperative for it was to be done "this night." The order was placed in the hands of a Mr. Connor with whom two Indians were sent as guides. The party lost its way in the darkness, and did not reach Fort Stephenson until almost noon the next day, so that entire compliance with the order was not possible.

Croghan called a council of his officers in which it was unanimously agreed that retreat would be dangerous, and that they could hold the fort against any force likely to be sent against it. It was probably the blunt form in which Croghan put his reply to General Harrison's order that stirred the gold general to drastic action. Acknowledging the receipt of the order, Croghan said it was received too late to be carried into execution, and added: "We have determined to maintain this place and by heavens, we can."

The same day by the hand of Colonel Wells, Harrison sent Croghan an order relieving him, with Wells taking command of the fort.

In it General Harrison said that when an officer avers that he has made a firm resolution to act in direct opposition to the orders of a general, he can no longer be entrusted with a separate command. Croghan went at once to General Harrison's headquarters, made full explanation of the situation, was exonerated, and the next morning was ordered back to command the fort. The assault of the British upon it was made one day later, August 1 and 2.

The Road to Health.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is a good thing to take stock of ourselves once in a while. After a summer out of doors, we come back to city and town with brown faces and good health. These are the result of having lived a more natural existence than we do the rest of the year.

Probably, if we were to ask the average person how many hours a day he spends out doors during the winter months he would be evasive on the subject. As a matter of fact many persons do not enjoy good health because they are not enough out-of-doors.

There are certain health rules that all could follow with good results if they would. Most persons are so busy they really do not give enough thought to rules of health. Of course, the less we think about disease the better for us. At the same time it is needful to map our day so that we shall be doing the things that make for good health.

Suppose we consider today some of the rules that should help us along the road of good health. You know them as well as I do, but somehow or other they are not observed as they should be. There is something about human nature that makes us resentful of rules and prohibitions. We are willing to be led but not driven.

But bear with me if I remind you of your shortcomings. You may write and remind me of mine. Then we will be even!

As regards the eating rules—have you any that you really observe? Or do you as regularly as sunrise eat too much food? Honestly, is that the reason you are taking on weight?

Overeating is one of the common faults of mankind—and this includes womankind. An excess of proteins—meat and eggs, is as great a fault as the taking of too much of the sweets.

To have good health, some of the bulky, raw foods should be consumed every day. Cabbage, lettuce, apples and celery are some of the things that come to my mind.

Eat slowly, enjoy your food, get its real taste. Drink lots of water, not at meals, but between times.

Taking an abundance of water aids the elimination. It helps to keep the intestines clean. The waste materials and poisons are carried away when there is plenty of water in the system.

You know as well as anybody that plenty of sleep in a well-ventilated room is essential to health. Impure air and insufficient rest are responsible for many ills.

Light, loose, porous clothing will increase your well-being. Men are given to wearing too heavy clothing. A reform in this matter would be an aid to health.

Get out of doors all you can. Hold your chin up, your stomach in and your spine straight. Walk vigorously and act as if living were a joy. Then you will be fit company for kings and common men!

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

MR. M.A. Q—I have a slight swelling on the left side between abdomen and hip. It is not very noticeable excepting when I am tired. At this time there is a sensation similar to that of a bruised muscle. Would this be a hernia? Would hernia be painful at all times? Would it become bigger if no truss or support is worn? The trouble has persisted for about two months and seems a little less troublesome than it was in the beginning.

A—Probably due to a strain. Careful examination will determine whether or not you have a hernia and then definite treatment can be advised. A hernia would not necessarily be painful all the time. Possibly depending upon the seriousness or extent of the trouble.

M.E.K. Q—What do you advise for Bright's disease?

A—This should have proper medical attention and treatment. Have your doctor advise you. Diet is one of the important factors in the reatment.

S.M. Q—What will eradicate pimples and red spots on the face caused by working around oiled machinery?

A—Watch the diet and keep the pores of the skin open so hat they throw off the dust and grime.—Copyright, 1931, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

A.B. Q—What causes red spots to appear on the neck at the least excitement? Is there a remedy?

A—This is probably due to a circulatory disturbance—nervousness may be complicating the trouble. Try to overcome any tendency to the latter.

X.Y.Z. Q—Is it possible to be healthy if the gall bladder has been removed? Is there danger of cirrhosis of the liver under these circumstances?

A—Yes, if the diet is properly taken care of and the system kept clear. Not necessarily. Careful diet will benefit the liver as well as the other vital organs of the body.

Science, Tyrant or Liberator?

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Walk through one of the great manufacturing establishments, and you will be treated to a depressing sight. In front of each punching machine—say Moloch—stands a worker feeding it pieces of steel by hand. To a lever geared to the mechanism is chained the man! He is handcuffed by the machine. The worker is the slave, the machine is the master. What price the machine? What penalty the machine age?

You will remember "Erewhon," the famous romance of Samuel Butler. The invader of this domain was arrested for carrying a watch. He was put on trial for his life because he had been caught with a piece of machinery!

In this pungent commentary on modern civilization, Butler shows how the machines came near overcoming mankind. The machines begat machines, and proceeded to develop according to laws of their own. So dangerous did they become, so wild and threatening in their behavior that eventually men came to fear them and ultimately to destroy them.

Stuart Chase's "Men and Machines" presents in vivid colors the problem which today confronts the race. Perhaps we shall not have the wisdom and the foresight displayed by the human beings in Butler's fantastic romance. Perhaps we shall go on, continuing to invent mechanical labor-saving devices until we become merely leisured, debilitated automata, bloodless and inert. Chase presents to us the vivid picture of this alternative, in a quotation from E. M. Forster's "The Machine Stops."

"Imagine, if you can, a small room, hexagonal in shape, like the cell of a bee. It is lighted neither by window nor by lamp, yet it is filled with a soft radiance. There are no apertures for ventilation, yet the air is fresh. There are no musical instruments, and yet the room is throbbing with melodious sounds. An armchair is in the center, by its side a reading-desk. In the armchair sits a woman, about five feet high, with a face as white as a fungus. • • • There are buttons and switches everywhere—buttons to call for food, for music, for clothing. There is the hot-bath button, by pressure of which a basin of marble rises out of the floor, filled to the brim with a warm deodorized liquid. There is the button that produces literature. And there are, of course, the buttons by which she communicates with her friends. The room, though it contains nothing, is in ouch with all that she cares for in the world. • • • By her side, on the little reading desk, is a survival from the age of litter—one book. This is the Book of the Machine. If she is hot or cold or dyspeptic or at a loss for a word, she goes to the book and it tells her which button to press."

Here is a life of perfect comfort, a blessed Nirvana of unperturbed anemia. But one day the machine stops. After a few gasping moments, life has ceased for the mass of mankind!

Somewhere between the two pictures, the two extremes—the one of Butler, the other of Forster—lies the happy mean for the human race in the future. Science and invention have raised the question, which is ever pressing more sternly for rational answer. It especially behooves us to find that answer, for America is the most mechanized nation on earth.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Jan. 19—Drop into the gallery of the house of representatives on "Consent Calendar" day—that time set aside for disposal of minor legislation—and watch Fiorello LaGuardia in action.

It is well worth while—that is, it will be if you enjoy action of the whirlwind variety.

Down near the front this New York congressman usually will be found. Before the table on the Republican side of the aisle, he sits when he is not on his feet bouncing around like a rubber ball.

He generally talks more than any one else and on an amazing number of subjects—for his store of information is amazing. It seems that his interests extend in every direction.

Columns in the index to the Congressional Record are required to list the topics on which he speaks. And they range from debt settlements to cornstalk paper and back to refuse incinerators.

He bubbles with good humor and gayety. To see him in action is to get the impression that he gets a tremendous kick out of his job.

To some of his colleagues, LaGuardia is incorrigible. Others refuse to take him seriously. But they all agree that he is in a class by himself.

He glories in his stage management. He is a showman, and opportunity seldom presents itself but that he takes advantage of it to display his ability along this line.

He has color, vitality, courage, independence and knowledge. It is easy to see why one hears so much of him.

Look up his name in the Congressional directory. Where others use as much as a half-page to outline their past accomplishments, LaGuardia for years has made this simple entry:

"F. H. LaGuardia."

He doesn't even let it be known that his first name is Fiorello, which means "Little Flower."

Sharp tongued, he has a mind quick as a flash and apparently loves nothing better than an interchange of words. Few are his equal in rejoinder. Rarely is he at loss for words to put an opponent at a disadvantage.

There was, for example, the time when he urged an appropriation for a facade for a building in New York. A colleague, somewhat famed for his handsomeness, opposed it.

"Does the gentleman know what a facade is?" queried LaGuardia.

"Certainly I do," was his opponent's retort. "It is the same thing that a snout is to a porker. It is the face—"

"Then," LaGuardia shot back, "if the gentleman would pay less attention to his face and more to what is inside his head he would get along better."

... well!" Jimmy chuckled ... letter sing that song for ... hospital.

...ere, you mean?" asked ...

...ly. Some afternoon—so ... ones can hear you. Emile ...didn't buy the space the ...ll give to that. Pictures, ... a bear!"

... I can't. You know ...

...rse you can and you ... as well get used to such ... Jimmy was impatient.

"Who is going to know about—what's making you hesitate?"

"I'll know," she answered pathetically. 'Those crippled kids will remind me—even if I could forget."

"Now, look here! This sort of thing won't do. You've gotten off to a flying start, and you've been on the stage long enough to realize how essential it is to keep in the public eye. What's more, there's no sense in your sitting here all the time you're not rehearsing. You've got to get out and do things."

Aileen wanted to cry, but she knew he was right. "Very well," she agreed, reluctantly. "If you think I should—I'll do it."

It was not going to be easy for her to force any break with Jimmy. If only they could be just like this—but, of course, they wouldn't.

Aileen remembered one night when she had almost surrendered—when there had been less reason for restraint than there was now. To have to hurt Jimmy would be bad enough. But what if her studied indifference should drive him away from her? She knew that she ought to hope it would—only she just couldn't' Nevertheless, she must force herself to abide by her resolution.

'Now that's being sensible."

Jimmy took up the telephone and put in the call

"Dr. Saunders? My name is Crane, and I'm speaking for Mademoiselle Masque She was delighted to get your letter and has a suggestion she would like to make to you."

She hesitated "Can't you make the arrangements?"

"Nix!" Jimmy covered the mouthpiece "I'm not news You are Here' Give him a neat little earful."

There was something magnetic in Dr. Saunders' voice. Aileen felt the thrill of it as she listened to him. His tones were suggestive of character translated into sound—pleasant, reassuring There was no hesitancy now as she made her offer. Saunders accepted eagerly. What she proposed was splendid—thoughtful and generous. He could never tell her what it would mean to his little patients

Any date would be agreeable—but he was leaving the hospital within the next few minutes He had a call in Park avenue, and perhaps, if it was agreeable, he might drop in and arrange the details with her personally. Since she could not very well decline. Aileen made the appointment for 5 that afternoon

"Fair enough!" said Jimmy. "Apparently old saw bones is partial to the ladies."

"Don't be silly." Aileen was already sorry she had agreed to receive the man If being a mystery meant interest of the sort that Jimmy hinted, she would need to be more careful—since she was a mystery that must remain unsolved.

"I'm not silly.—I'm optimistic. I'll tip off the hotel reporters to the fact that the doctor's on his way Then I'll be back in time to be helpful when he comes"

Aileen tried to be glad when Jimmy had gone but she found the effort pathetically unsuccessful. She had a natural desire to crown their camaraderie with a greater reward than friendship. And yet how pitiful was the return she could make to Jimmy! How empty was all that she might expect when her soul was longing—to give—and give unstintedly.

In spite of its great consolation, she almost hated the poreclain smile which masked her unquenchable yearning She would have liked to tear it off, but even though she was alone Aileen did not dare Nora Nolan had gone out and, at any moment, a hotel attendant might knock She went to the piano and drifted into the hit number of her radio program.

Had she fancied she heard a tapping or was someone at the door? For a moment she feared Dr Saunders had come. His visit would prove embarrassing if Jimmy was not there. But it would not be the doctor. It was barely half-past four, and the hotel would announce him over the telephone. Making sure that her mask set perfectly, Aileen went to the door.

It was a page-boy with a silver tray on which were two envelopes. One had been mailed, and the other, which had not been stamped, bore the crest of the hotel. "Just a moment," Aileen said, meaning to tip the boy. She knew he was looking at her mask with the well-trained curiosity of a smart hotel attendant.

"If you please, ma'am," he stopped her, "a gentleman is waiting. Is there any answer?"

"To this?" Aileen asked, and ripped open the Ambassador envelope. On a single sheet was written a scrawl in a hand distinctly foreign . . . .

Please pardon if this seems impertinent, but may I have a few minutes if it is not inconvenient? My room is in the opposite wing from the window of your suite, and just now I heard you singing the new Valse Parfum Masque. Making inquiry at the desk, I am told that I had heard the voice of Mlle Masque herself.

Perhaps my name is known to you, and if you will grant an interview, there is a matter of business I should like to propose Since I am about to leave the hotel, may I see you now?

The note was signed Arnold Kronberg

Aileen was nonplussed. She had never met the man, much less even suspected that he was at the Ambassador. It was entirely possible that his request was genuine, and without ulterior motive. On the other hand, she doubted it, and if Nora Nolan had not come in as she stood hesitating Aileen would have made some excuse to say that she could not see him As it was, it might prove an advantage if she heard what he had to say. So she told the boy to send him up and opened the other letter.

It was addressed to her pseudonym, and might be from anyone who had seen or read about her. There was nothing but a picture in the envelope—a conventional holiday greeting, with the usual holly wreath and a Santa Claus. But the Kriss Kringle had been cleverly changed, so that it resembled a girl and not a man. Pasted across the features was a tiny domino cut from court-plaster.

Hand lettered in ink on the face of the card was a single sentence —"May the Christmas Season bring you even more publicity!" It was signed Adrastela.

As Aileen stood staring at the impudent card, there was another knock at the door and she called to Nora Nolan to go and open it. The visitor would be Kronberg, and it would be an absurd mistake to decline to receive him now. In the moment or so that remained to her, Aileen tried to determine whether his request to see her and the arrival of Adrastela's card, could have been timed deliberately, or whether their coming together was mere coincidence.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TUESDAY, and the sky was clear when I woke up and pushed Jubilee out of bed and opened the window to let him down by the rope in his teeth, and it wasn't very cold, but he shivered and shook and didn't want to go down that way, but it was all a bluff, because when I had let him down and had put on my short britches and went down and went out in the yard with the milk pail he was running around the yard to get warm and looking like he liked it. A fella is out of luck when he can't trust his own dog.

When I had fed my face me and Jubilee and the bunch went over to Old Man Scanlun's to see how Nibs was getting along with the cow, and instead of taking the water in the barn in a bucket to water her he had started to bring her out to the pump, and just when he got there it was all glairy ice around the pump where the water had spilled and froze, and the cow had been afraid to go on to it, and when Nibs had found that he couldn't lead her on he had went around behind her and twisted her tail, and pushed her, and when we got there he was setting on the ice and the cow was setting in his lap, and she couldn't get up because her front feet would slip, and Mr. and Mrs. Scanlun didn't know what to do, so we all jerked her front feet till they slid out and she was laying down, then we got hold of her tail and her horns and pulled on her till we slid her off of Nibs and the glairy ice to where there was snow and she could get a foot hold, and then she got up with her hind end and then with her front end and then she kicked Nibses hat off and ran in the barn. So then I got the pail and watered her and then I sot down and milked her, and Mrs. Scanlun said I got more milk from her than Nibs does, so she gave me a glass of milk and some hot biscuits, and I felt like I was setting on top of the world till Peanuts took Hopper's crutch and pushed my feet out from under me, and then I was setting on the world so hard it made my brains rattle.

When I had got up and had reached around and pulled the spine of my head back down to where it belonged I tried to catch him but he had too good a start, so that when I got to the bottom of the school steps he was at the top of them and he opened the door from the outside just as Mush the janitor's wife opened it from the inside, and he was going fast and she is small and the steps to the basement are just narrow halls, so the next thing they knew they were both going down the basement stairs, all ting warm in the basement laughed so hard that they got run out. I don't blame them.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

The Sunken Pool in the Garden Proves a Surprise

AS we followed Dicky and my mother-in-law down the steps Harry Underwood just behind Jerry Ticer, and the two small boys, with, I sensed gratefully, a watchful eye on both of them, Sam Ticer behind them, and Lillian and Mrs. Ticer on either side of me my father appeared from the library, where he had gone after greeting the homecomers.

"Are you sure?" he began worriedly, and Katherine spoke briskly reassuringly

"No, she's not overdoing it, but go along with her and make sure that she behaves. She needs a guardian."

Fatherly Devotion

"Indeed she does" my father said, earnestly, and Katherine smiled roguishly at me across his shoulder, for months before the arrival of my baby, and ever since, my father has seemed obsessed by the idea that I must be shielded from all exertion and all worry With the fatuity and unreasonableness which broad-minded men of affairs are apt to display when members of their own family are ill, he would have wrecked the patience of anyone less equable of temper less comprehending of soul than Katherine. But even Dicky usualy impatient at fussiness, has uttered no captious comment upon the devoted, overshadowing care which my father has given me Of course, the members of our little world know the reason for this anxiety of his, inordinate, even when as in my case, the object of such fatherly solicitude is an only child. But to my father's love for me there is always added a sense of remorseful guilt, because I did not know that I had a living father until after my marriage to Dicky. Then, under dramatic circumstances, I met "The Quester," one of the most romantic and mysterious figures in Broadway, a man who always sat alone at a table in first one and then another of the gay resorts of New York, watching, always watching At last I learned that "The Quester" was my father and that for years he had haunted all public places, hoping to find me, his missing daughter by the resemblance to my mother, which I possessed in infancy.

I already knew the tragic story of her marriage, from my mother, who died before I met Dicky, and when I had found my father and finally, after a long struggle, had forgiven him, he never would let me refer again to that long ago awful time when he had deserted my mother and me, a child of barely four years, and fled with the woman whom my mother had counted as her best friend.

Never has he felt that he could make up to me sufficiently for those wasted years and I know that his greatest terror is the fear that he may lose me Even the great love he has for Junior, and now for his tiny granddaughter has not subtracted from his great affection for me and his anxiety for my welfare

I love him so much and have such pitying comprehension of the remorse which is at the root of his great anxiety for me that I cannot disregard it But I know that sooner or later, I must assert myself against it, for, without meaning it he would make a helpless neurotic of me if I yielded to his authority

Just now, however I am content to bask in the atmosphere of solicitous care with which, not only my father but everyone else is surrounding me. So, it was that I looked up at him with a docile smile as he fussily took the arm which Mrs Ticer deferentially relinquished as he neared me, and gave Lillian a signal to take care of our neighbor, and see that she did not become offended by treatment more cavalier than my father was wont to offer anybody

"I am all excited over this surprise," I heard Lillian say graciously to her "It must be something pretty scrumptious, judging by the way everybody is acting about it."

"Just wait till you see it," my neighbor rejoined, but there was a flatness in her voice which surprised me, for I knew that she was most enthusiastic over the "surprise" which her husband had had a hand in fashioning It was as if her mind were somewhere else, and I wondered if some untoward occurence in her family was worrying my good neighbor

The Surprise

"But I put all speculation from my mind as we came in sight of the "surprise" which Dicky and my father had planned as a welcome to me when I came home from the hospital with my new daughter. They know how intense is my enjoyment of my gardens of roses and of old-fashioned hardy perennials, and they had remembered a frequent remark of mine that all the gardens needed to make them perfect was a water feature So the first day that I went out to my flowers, expecting to find only the phlox the monthly roses, the lilies and the coreopsis, those saving standbys of the trying August season I was enraptured by the discovery which was now eliciting admiring comments from the Underwoods and awestricken "Gees" from Junior and Roderick

"This is certainly the very last of all the words" Harry Underwood laid down the dictum as the finish of his enthusiastic comments. "Who did it, anyway?" Dicky waved a hand toward Sam Ticer before speaking, and I smiled at Mrs Ticer, expecting to see in my good neighbor's face the same simple pleasure which she had displayed when I had first exclaimed in joyous surprise at the pool But her eyes, fixed on mine held so tense an expression of worry that it disquieted me What ever could have happened to her"

CHURCH CHAMPS LOSE TO PRESBIES 33-29

CHRISTIANS BEATEN IN HARD BATTLE TO LOSE LEAGUE LEAD

Calvary Wins First Game of Season; Zig Snyder Sets Record.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star.

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN No. 1 basketball team, for two years champions of the Marion Y-Church league, was rudely jolted from its pedestal as co-leader of the league Saturday night as the First Presbyterian five won a desperately fought battle on the Y floor, 33 to 29. The Presbyterian victory puts Christians in second place and leaves Waldo and Presbyterian in a deadlock for first place.

In the other two games of the church circuit Saturday, Calvary Evangelical came through with a long awaited victory over St. Mary, winning 21 to 20, while Epworth walloped United Brethren 51 to 30.

Standings Jumbled

The Saturday night games put the standings in a decided jumble as four teams are now tied at 600 per cent. But one team, St. Mary, remains without at least one victory for the season. Lee Street and Calvary have each won a single game.

The Presbyterians and Christians played a nip and tuck battle for the first half but the losers slumped slightly in the third period to let the winning five jump into a decisive advantage. The lead was soon cut down however as Gillis and Gilmore combined to score several baskets.

Milt Pohler is the hero of the Presbyterian Sunday school as a result of his high class showing against the champions. Pohler was high score man for the game, collecting 13 points on six field goals and a free throw. He was not the only shining light for the Presbies, despite his scoring antics. Sage collected two points and made possible a lot more with his unerring passwork and general all around play. Keller also kept the Christians from scoring on several occasions with some good work at back guard.

No Christian Stars

The Christians presented no outstanding star of the game although Gillis scored 12 points. His work on defense was weak and allowed a lot of Presbyterian points. Gilmore and Dulin turned in good performances.

Epworth M. E. with Zig Synder in the leading role ran wild to hand the United Brethren a 51-30 beating. Snyder ran up the largest single score made in any church league game this season his total count reaching 23 points. Jonsson also went on somewhat of a scoring spree, collecting nine points.

Hack Wilson to Ask Wrigley for $40,000 Contract.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—Having read of Babe Ruth's reported salary of $80,000 a year, Hack Wilson has decided that he should be worth at least half that much.

The Pudgy Cub outfielder, who dethroned the Bambino as home run king of the majors with 56 circuit clouts last year, said he would demand a contract for $40,000 next season.

Wilson's contract, calling for $22,500 a year, expired at the end of the 1930 campaign.

Plan Gym Classes for Women of Marion

If plans partially formulated by J. L. Meredith, former secretary of the Marion Y. M. C. A. do not go astray, the women of the city will soon have an opportunity to enroll in supervised gymnasium classes. Meredith plans to conduct classes for women in the Steam Shovel gymnasium.

These classes will in all probability meet twice a week. Competitive games and calesthenics will be stressed by Meredith, he has announced. The meetings will be held from 7 to 9 p. m. but no definite dates have been announced yet.

Meredith conducted a class of this kind while with the local Y from 1923 to 1925.

Shelby Beats Mansfield 17-12 to Tie for Second in N. C. O.

TYGERS DEADLOCKED WITH HARDING FIVE IN FOURTH POSITION

Whippets Start Fast, but Are Checked in Second Half of Game.

SHELBY High school kept itself in a tie for second place with Galion, Saturday night by defeating Mansfield 17 to 12 in a tight defensive battle. The defeat of Mansfield put the Tygers in a deadlock with Harding for fourth position in the league. Both have won one and lost two. Shelby has won two and lost but one.

The Whippet five started the Mansfield game in a manner which threatened to completely annihilate the Murphymen but by the time the second half rolled around Mansfield found is bearings and stopped Shelby effectively. Shelby scored 10 points in the opening half before the Tygers found the hoop for a single pointer.

Jim Miller and Peters stood out for Shelby in the game. Peters played a first class guarding game and Miller also played a stellar defensive role. Culbertson of Shelby was high scorer with nine points.

Clayton Luckie, colored star who shone so brightly for the Tygers a couple of seasns ago was back in the varsity lineup for the first time this year Saturday and played a good game.

Mansfield threatened to deadlock the count with Shelby late in the game but a pair of goals and a free throw by Culbertson put the Shelby team out in front with a safe advantage.

Y-INDUS LOSES TO MIDDLETOWN QUINT

Locals Play in Slipshod Manner To Drop 29-22 Game Saturday.

AN erroneous belief on the part of four first string players of the Y-Indus basketball club that they were capable of playing two hard games in a single evening caused the Marion Y team to take a 29 to 20 defeat from Middletown's Y. M. C. A. cagers on the Shovel gym court Saturday night. Four of the team took part in the Presbyterian-Central Christian conflict in the church league at 7:15 and then appeared in the lineup of the Y-Indus an hour later.

As a result Middletown romped all over the locals in the first half holding a 17-3 advantage at midgame time. The Marion team attempted a rally in the second half and for a short time threatened to make the going tough for the downstaters but the lead was too much to overcome and the locals were handed their second beating in two nights.

Floorwork Poor

Middletown opened the game with a fast moving attack that had Marion completely bewildered and stopped before the game was five minutes old. Floundering aimlessly around and committing inexcusable errors in floorwork the Shovel Y team could not begin to check the opponents scoring machine.

The two opposing guards, Oglesby and Schneider, played rings around the local club although they did not contribute a large share of points. Schneider, an all-Ohio scholastic playe. in 1926 is one of the best guards seen on the local court in a long time. His floorwork was good and the way he handled the ball was a pleasure to watch.

Team Play Missing

The machine-like precision which is usually characteristic of Y-Indus play was sadly lacking. Bud Cram, captain and guard of the first string team and Osterholt, a reserve center, were the only two members of the outfit that performed in anything like the usual smooth fashion.

The Shovel Y-Indus will attempt to get back into the win column tonight when the team goes to Columbus to meet the Central Evening High school of the Capital city.

In a preliminary game to the Y-Indus-Middletown fray Waldo Sunday school overwhelmed the Claridon Independents 35 to 11

WILDCATS TO CLASH WITH MICHIGAN FIVE IN CRUCIAL BATTLE

"Zero Hour" Arrives for Undefeated Northwestern Team.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 — Northwestern's recognized "zero hour" in the Big Ten basketball championship campaign arrives at Ann Arbor tonight when the undefeated Wildcats tackle Michigan's in and out basketeers.

Not only will the result decide the current first place struggle between Chicago and the Wildcats but it may decide Northwestern's entire success in the badly scrambled race.

Ever since the schedule markers framed the campaign route, Northwestern has agreed it must defeat Michigan twice to keep its hopes of winning the title. Ten days ago the Wildcats staggered through to a 27 to 22 victory over their rivals but tonight looked like a harder battle. Not since their one point victory in 1919 have the Wildcats defeated Michigan at Ann Arbor.

A victory for Michigan would give Chicago's surprising team the undisputed leadership with a record of two victories and no defeats to Northwestern's mark of two vic-

BISHOPS CONTINUE TO LEAD BUCKEYE

Ohio State Fights Way into "Upper-Crust" of Western Conference.

By United Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 19—While Ohio State's basketball team continued to fight its way into the "upper crust" of the western conference last week, members of three Ohio college leagues were engaged in a stiff tussle for leadership of their respective groups.

Ohio Wesleyan, with three well-earned victories, continued to dominate the Buckeye conference; Wooster and Mount Union, with four victories apiece, were in technical possession of the Ohio conference leadership and Defiance college topped the Northwest conference with two consecutive wins.

Ohio Beats Michigan

Ohio State's 22-to-16 victory over Michigan Saturday night proved that the Buckeyes will be dangerous opponent for any team on the Ohio floor. Ohio looked a bit better than it had in previous games and uncovered another weapon in its extremely effective stalling game. Ohio had almost complete control of the ball throughout the last 10 minutes of the game.

Ohio Wesleyan kept a jump ahead of Denison in the Buckeye race by defeating Cincinnati, 29 to 27, in a game that required two overtime periods. Ginlven, guard, and Myerly, center, led the Bishops scoring. Denison gained undisputed position of second place by beating Ohio university, 35 to 27.

Miami Is Victor

In another Buckeye game Saturday night, Miami nosed out DePauw, 27 to 26. The game will have no bearing on the championship since DePauw and Wabash will not become official members until next season.

Wooster and Mount Union had a comparatively easy time maintaining their Ohio conference command. Wooster defeated Kenyon, 65 to 48, and Mount Union stopped Otterbein, 40 to 12.

In other Ohio conference games Heidelberg licked Kent State, 39 to 24, and Ashland defeated Case, 38 to 31.

Wittenberg's quintet continued to electrify the Ohio basketball domain with its easy triumph over Ohio Northern, 42 to 25. It was Wittenberg's ninth consecutive college victory.

Loyola university of Chicago beat Western Reserve, 33 to 29; Defiance defeated Dayton, 41 to 25; Xavier stopped Centre college, 30 to 19, and Hiram defeated Youngstown college, 34 to 19, in other contests Saturday night.

"You Will Benefit Public Health"

DR. J. F. X. STACK
212 GARDEN STREET
HOBOKEN, N. J.

June 17, 1930.

American Cigar Company,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

I have seen your advertising displays in the newspapers and on billboards, telling people about the harm spitting may cause and the dangers lurking in cigars when the tips are sealed with spit. Your efforts to teach the public and thus prevent suffering will do more than sell cigars. You will benefit public health, and for that reason I want to give my enthusiastic approval to your campaign.

As a health commissioner, I am interested in seeing information of this sort brought home to everybody. Human ills would be greatly lessened if every person know what danger there is in spitting in public places and in using the tongue to seal or moisten anything in manufacturing. Your campaign is indeed a "Crusade of Decency" and my department wishes you success in your efforts.

You are welcome to use this letter in your plan of public education, if you wish, with the understanding that I am not publicly endorsing your product in preference to any other, but that I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner.

Very truly yours,
J. F. X. Stack M. D.
Health Commissioner,
City of Hoboken, N. J.

. . . one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Stack's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Stack writes: "I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it... Smoke Certified Cremo — a really wonderful smoke — mild — mellow — nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In this period of cold weather and cracked lips, above all insist on a cigar—free of the spit germ.

Calvary Wins First Game of Season; Zig Snyder Sets Record.

Epworth led the U. B. five throughout the entire contest.

Calvary Evangelical played on even terms with the green clad warriors of St. Mary during the first half and then pulled out in front to chalk up the first win of the season and hand the Irish their fifth beating. The margin 21-20 was one of those single point affairs the second which St. Mary has lost in a week.

Sheik Snyder, Calvary's deliberate pivot-man, topped the scorers with four goals and three charity tosses.
